If an original document is to be produced, the producing party must give written notice at the time of its production that the document is an original. If the producing party asserts confidentiality over the original document, that must be done at the time of production in a written statement accompanying the document.

F. In the case of deposition testimony, confidentiality designations shall be made by written notice served on the other parties within 30 days after the transcript has been received by counsel making the designation. Each party shall attach a copy of each such written notice to the face of the transcript and each copy thereof in that party's possession, custody, or control. Until the expiration of such 30-day period, the entire text of the deposition, including all testimony therein and exhibits thereto (except for exhibits that were previously produced without being marked confidential), shall be treated as confidential under this Order. Confidential Discovery Material shall be used solely for the purposes of prosecuting or defending civil claims in this Litigation or for purposes of administering the NECP Bankruptcy Proceedings, including but not limited to development and approval of a Chapter 11 plan, and for no other purpose without prior written approval from the Court, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Massachusetts before which the NECC Bankruptcy Proceeding is pending (the "Bankruptcy Court"), or the prior written consent of the producing party or person.

B. All parties or persons receiving or given access to Confidential Discovery Material in accordance with the terms of this Order consent to the continuing jurisdiction of the Court and Bankruptcy Court for the purposes of enforcing this Order and remedying any violations thereof. If the witness qualifies to receive the disclosure of Confidential Discovery Material in the preceding sentence, that disclosure may be made before, during, or after their testimony, so long as the disclosure is made in good faith and prior to the disclosure, the witness has expressly agreed to abide by the terms of this Order as set forth in paragraph 3.A, or has been shown a copy of this Order, made aware of its terms, conditions, and applicability, and advised that the witness is bound by this Order.

K. The parties may view Confidential Discovery Material so long as prior to the disclosure the individual wishing to view the material has agreed to abide by the terms of this Protective Order as set forth in paragraph 3.A.

L. Liability insurers for the parties, may view Confidential Discovery Material so long as prior to the disclosure, the individual wishing to view the material has agreed to abide by the terms of this Order as set forth in paragraph 3.A.

M. Such other persons or authorities as the Court or Bankruptcy Court orders or directs may receive Confidential Discovery Material.

8. All outside counsel, in-house counsel, in-house paralegals and the employees and assistants of all counsel receiving discovery shall take all steps reasonably necessary to prevent the disclosure of Confidential Discovery Material other than in accordance with the terms of this Order.

9. Disclosure of Confidential Discovery Material other than in accordance with the terms of this Order may subject the disclosing person to such sanctions and remedies as the Court or Bankruptcy Court may deem appropriate. The Court may, in its discretion, refer any such matters to Bankruptcy Court for disposition or withdraw the reference of such matter from the Bankruptcy Court.

10. A. In the event that the producing party inadvertently fails to designate Discovery Material as confidential, it may at any time, make a Confidentiality Designation subsequently by notifying all parties or persons to whom such Discovery Material was produced, in writing, as soon as practicable. After receipt of such notification, the parties or persons to whom the production has been made shall treat the designated Discovery Material as confidential, subject to their right to dispute such designation in accordance with this paragraph.

Upon written agreement or order of the Court or Bankruptcy Court that Discovery Material shall be treated as confidential, the producing party or person shall re-produce the Discovery Material with a new bates number, and with a Confidentiality Designation.

B. If at any time a party wishes for any reason to dispute a Confidentiality Designation, such party shall notify the designating party of such dispute in writing, specifying the Discovery Material in dispute and the nature of the dispute. If the parties are unable amicably to resolve the dispute, the disputing party may apply by motion to the Court or Bankruptcy Court for a ruling as to whether the designated Discovery Material may properly be treated as confidential. The Court may, in its discretion, refer any such matters to Bankruptcy Court for disposition or withdraw the reference of such matter from the Bankruptcy Court.

The designating party shall have the burden of proof on such motion to establish the propriety of its confidentiality designation.

C. All Discovery Material designated as confidential under this Order, whether or not such designation is in dispute pursuant to subparagraph 10.A above, shall retain that designation and be treated as confidential in accordance with the terms hereof unless and until:

- i. the producing party agrees in writing that the material is no longer confidential and subject to the terms of this Order; or
- ii. this Court or Bankruptcy Court enters an Order that the matter shall not be entitled to confidential status and that Order is not subject to an appellate stay within 20 days after it is issued.

D. In the event that Discovery Material marked as confidential loses its confidential status, that Discovery Material shall not be treated as confidential. Upon request, the producing party shall re-produce the Discovery Material with a new bates number, and without a Confidentiality Designation.

11. Any non-party may subscribe to and invoke the terms and protections of this Order by designating Discovery Materials that the non-party is producing (whether written documents, deposition testimony, or other) as set forth in paragraph 4.

12. Any party reasonably and in good faith wishing to file any material previously designated by any party as Confidential Discovery Material (“submitting party”), shall contemporaneously file a Motion to Seal such Confidential Discovery Material using the following procedures:

(a) The submitting party shall fully comply with the requirements of Local Rule 7.1 and certify that it has conferred and attempted in good faith to resolve or narrow the issues on the Motion to Seal with the parties that have designated the Confidential Discovery Material (“designating parties”). Prior to such conference, the submitting party shall identify to the designating parties all papers to be filed that are designated as containing Confidential Discovery Material. During such conference, or within three days thereof, the designating parties shall identify the specific text or content of each paper to be filed that the designating parties believe, in good faith, to constitute Confidential Discovery Material. The submitting party may then only file versions or copies of such papers that have been sufficiently redacted to entirely remove or obscure all of the specific text or content identified by the designating parties as constituting Confidential Discovery Material. If the designating parties have not made such identification within the three day period, the submitting parties shall only file copies or versions of the papers that entirely redact or obscure all text and content.

(b) Upon the filing of the redacted paper, the submitting party shall file the Motion to Seal and a supporting Declaration (1) identifying the submitting party, (2) referencing this Order, (3) describing the general nature and purpose for submitting the paper (i.e., exhibit to declaration in support of motion, etc.), (4) identifying the designating parties, and (5) whether the designating parties have identified the specific text or content constituting Confidential Discovery Material.

(c) Promptly after the filing, the submitting party shall deliver to the Court complete, unredacted versions or copies of such papers in a sealed envelope, addressed to chambers, and clearly marked, "FILED UNDER SEAL." Such unredacted papers shall be accompanied by a copy of the Declaration supporting the Motion to Seal.

(d) Any party shall have the opportunity to submit papers supporting or opposing the Motion to Seal. The papers supporting or opposing the Motion to Seal shall fully comply with applicable rules and orders and shall be served and filed in redacted form complying with subparagraphs (a) through (c) above. If the redacted paper is filed in connection with a motion or proceeding for which a responding period is provided by applicable rule or order, the papers supporting or opposing the Motion to Seal shall be filed within that time period, or any extension thereof. If no responding time period is otherwise provided, papers supporting or opposing the Motion to Seal shall be served and filed within 7 days of the filing of the redacted paper. No additional papers may be filed in connection with the Motion to Seal except upon leave of Court. Confidential Discovery Material may not be filed with, or as any part of, an emergency paper or application, unless such emergency paper or application provides sufficient notice to designating parties for full compliance with the requirements of this Order. Nothing in this paragraph shall change the deadline for the responding party to file any opposition or response to the underlying pleading filed with the Motion to Seal.

(e) All unredacted papers containing Confidential Discovery Material submitted to the Court pursuant to this Order shall be presumptively sealed and kept under seal unless and until otherwise ordered by this Court.

(f) The decision or Order of this Court with respect to the Motion to Seal shall not affect any designation of Confidential Discovery Material or application of any other provision of this Order, unless the Court orders the Confidential Discovery Material to be undesignated as such.

(g) If the Court orders that papers containing Confidential Discovery Material be sealed, the material shall remain under seal until further order of the Court. However, said Confidential Discovery Material and other papers filed under seal shall be available to the Court and to all other persons entitled to receive the Confidential Discovery Material under the terms of this Order. Nothing contained herein shall prejudice the right of any party from subsequently challenging the propriety of any sealing upon a showing of good cause.

13. As authorized by T.C.A. 29-26-121, Defendants and their attorneys may obtain protected information during interviews, outside the presence of Plaintiffs or Plaintiffs' counsel, with Plaintiffs' treating healthcare providers, as defined by T.C.A. 29-26-101 and as identified by Plaintiffs in the Plaintiff Fact Sheet or as otherwise agreed between the parties or ordered by this Court, upon proper motion. Use or dissemination of any information obtained during these ex-parte communications shall be used solely for the purposes of prosecuting or defending civil claims in this Litigation or for purposes of Administering the NECP Bankruptcy Proceedings, including but not limited to the development and approval of a Chapter 11 plan, and for no other purpose without prior written approval from the Court, the Bankruptcy Court, or the prior written consent of the Plaintiffs or Plaintiffs' counsel.

14. A. Nothing in this Order shall prevent or restrict counsel for any party or person in any way from inspecting, reviewing, using or disclosing any Discovery Material produced or provided by that party or person, including Discovery Material designated as confidential.

B. No disclosure pursuant to this paragraph shall waive any rights, privileges or protection of any party granted by this Order.

15. This Order shall not:

- A. enlarge or otherwise affect the proper scope of discovery;
- B. restrict a party's right to object to a specific Discovery Request;
- C. affect the applicability of any privilege in this or any other litigation; or
- D. be read to imply that Discovery Material designated as confidential
- E. under the terms of this Order is properly discoverable, relevant or admissible in this or any other litigation.

16. Notwithstanding the provisions of this Order, producing parties may redact from any documents, whether designated as Confidential or not, any information or data that is subject to any privileges or exemptions from discovery or that is protected from disclosure by State or Federal regulations. If, after reviewing the documents containing a redaction a receiving party has a good faith basis for challenging the redaction, the parties shall initially attempt to resolve the issue through discussions. If those discussions prove unsuccessful, the challenging party may move for a ruling by the Court on whether the document is entitled to redaction, which may, where legally permitted, necessitate an in camera inspection of the document in non-redacted form by the Court. If the Court orders that the redacted portion of said document should remain redacted, then the redacted portion of the document may not be used as evidence by any party at trial or at a hearing and may not be relied upon by any party's experts. If the Court orders that the redacted portion of said document is not entitled to redaction, and if the Court orders the producing party to produce the document without redaction, then the producing party shall produce the document in non-redacted form. Unless expressly ordered otherwise by the Court, a finding that document is not entitled to redaction shall have no effect on the status of the document as Confidential.

17. The entry of this Order shall be without prejudice to the rights of the parties, or any one of them, or of any non-party to assert or apply for additional or different protection at their discretion. Any party who requests further limits on disclosure (such as “attorneys’ eyes only” in extraordinary circumstances), may at any time prior to trial, serve upon counsel for the designating party a written notice stating with particularity such request and the grounds therefore. If agreement cannot be reached promptly, the party seeking the additional or different protection may apply by motion to the Court for a ruling as to whether the disputed material shall be afforded the additional or different protection.

18. All counsel of record in this Litigation shall make a good faith effort to comply with the provisions of this Order and to ensure that their clients do so. In the event of a change in counsel, outgoing counsel shall fully instruct new counsel of their responsibilities under this Order.

19. The terms of this Order shall survive and remain in effect after the termination of this Litigation. The parties shall take such measures as are necessary and appropriate to prevent the public disclosure of Confidential Discovery Material, through inadvertence or otherwise, after the conclusion of this Litigation.

20. Within 30 days of the termination of both this Litigation and NECC Bankruptcy Proceedings, including all remands and appeals, the parties shall return to counsel for the producing party the Confidential Discovery Material produced by that producing party including all copies thereof. Alternatively, the parties may agree upon appropriate methods of destroying Confidential Discovery Material. However, Confidential Discovery Material that is maintained by counsel as an exhibit to a document that had been filed with the Court and/or Bankruptcy Court is not subject to this paragraph. Whether the Confidential Discovery Material is returned or destroyed, the receiving party must submit a written certification to the producing party (and, if not the same person or entity, to the designating party) within 30 days that identifies (by category, where appropriate) all Confidential Discovery Material that was returned or destroyed and that affirms that the receiving party has not retained any copies, abstracts, compilations, summaries or other forms of reproducing or capturing any of the Confidential Discovery Material. Notwithstanding this provision, counsel are entitled to retain an archival copy of all pleadings, motion papers, transcripts, legal memoranda, correspondence or attorney work product, even if such materials contain Confidential Discovery Material. Any such archival copies that contain or constitute Confidential Discovery Material remain subject to this Order. However, except as otherwise attached to pleadings or depositions obtained pursuant to this paragraph, copies of Confidential Discovery Material shall not be retained.

21. If Confidential Discovery Material in the possession of a receiving party is subpoenaed by any court, administrative or legislative body or authority, or any other person or organization purporting to have authority to subpoena information, other than this Court or the Bankruptcy Court, the party to whom the subpoena is directed shall not, to the extent permitted by applicable law, provide or otherwise disclose such documents or information without first notifying counsel for the producing party in writing of: (1) the information and documentation sought by subpoena; (2) the date on which compliance with the subpoena is requested; (3) the location at which compliance with the subpoena is requested; (4) the identity of the party serving the subpoena; and (5) the case name, jurisdiction and index, docket, complaint, charge, civil action or other identification number or other designation identifying the litigation, administrative proceeding or other proceeding in which the subpoena has been issued. Said notification shall be made to counsel for the producing party or person no later than 5 days from the date upon which the subpoenaed party first received notice of the subpoena. No Confidential Discovery Material may be disclosed, if within 7 days of receipt by the producing party or person of notice of the subpoena, such producing party or person intervenes and objects to the disclosure.

22. Inadvertent production of documents subject to work-product immunity, the attorney-client privilege, joint interest communication privilege or other legal privilege protecting information from discovery shall not constitute a waiver of the immunity or privilege, provided that the producing party or person shall promptly notify the receiving party in writing of such inadvertent production. If reasonably prompt notification is made, such inadvertently produced documents and all copies thereof, as well as all notes or other work product reflecting the contents of such materials, shall be returned to the producing party or person, or destroyed, upon request, and such returned or destroyed material shall be deleted from any litigation-support or other database. No use shall be made of such documents during deposition or at trial, nor shall they be shown to anyone who was not given access to them prior to the request to return or destroy them, unless otherwise permitted by the Court. The party returning such material may move the Court or Bankruptcy Court for an order compelling production of the material. If a party governed by this Order learns that, by inadvertence or otherwise, it has disclosed Confidential Discovery Material to any person or in any circumstance not authorized under this Order or by any other Order from this Court or the Bankruptcy Court, the disclosing party must immediately (a) notify in writing the party who designated the material as confidential of the unauthorized disclosure, (b) use its best efforts to retrieve all unauthorized copies of the disclosed Confidential Discovery Material, (c) inform the person or persons to whom unauthorized disclosures were made of the terms of this Order, and (d) seek an agreement from the party to whom the unintended disclosure was made that they will return the Confidential Discovery Material and not redistribute it.

23. This Order does not restrict or limit the use of Confidential Discovery Material at any hearing or trial. Nothing in this Order, however, shall prevent any party from seeking an appropriate protective order to govern use of such Confidential Discovery Material at a hearing or trial.

24. This Order shall not prevent persons bound hereby from making use of information or materials without the restrictions of this Order if the information or materials (a) are already lawfully in the public domain or are otherwise lawfully available to the public; (b) were produced in this or in any related state or federal court litigation or administrative proceeding in which such information was not designated as “confidential” or “proprietary” or subject to a protective order or court order as “confidential” or “proprietary” otherwise subject to confidential or proprietary treatment; or (c) where there has been a final determination from any Court (including any appeal from a ruling or order) that the Discovery Material is not confidential.

25. Any party may attempt to seek relief from this Order by filing a motion with the Court or Bankruptcy court. The Court may in its discretion refer any such matters to Bankruptcy Court for disposition or withdraw the reference of such matter from the Bankruptcy Court.

26. Decisions made by this Court related to Confidential Discovery Material, shall be enforceable in the Bankruptcy Court, and vice versa, unless good cause is shown to not allow the enforcement.

27. This Protective Order and any counterpart to this Order entered by the Bankruptcy Court shall be read in pari materia.

So Ordered.
